AYLWARD FOR GOVERNOR

JOHN A. AYLWARD, OF MADISON.

John A. Aylward of Madison, Wisconsin, announced his candidacy for the nomination for governor on the Democratic ticket in response to a unanimous call of the Democratic of Dane county, which county has the largest Democratic vote in the state outside of Milwaukee county, and in response to the urgent written request that he become a candidate from many leading Democrats throughout the state.

Mr. Aylward's candidacy is due to no agreement or understanding with anyone within or without the party. Those who brought him out know that Mr. Aylward's candidacy is due wholly to the demands made upon him for the party's welfare alone, by loyal Democrats who helped frame and who heartily support the Milwaukee platform.

He was induced to become a candidate because it was thought his nomination would work to the benefit of the party. Our platform is a frank, strong avowal of true Democratic principles. It is a progressive platform and takes advanced positions on important questions. It therefore calls for action. It demands a strong, vigorous campaign to bring it properly before the people. The political situation too is unusual. The opposition is badly divided. Political sentiment which has for some time been running counter to us, is now strongly in our favor. It is therefore an opportune time to make an open, determined fight on the offensive. His friends believe he can make the campaign that the situation demands. He is not only a strong campaigner but he is an organizer and leader. A campaign such as suggested would bring to our standard many old and many new voters who are determined that the rule of monopoly shall cease and that the people shall rule. Such a campaign would not only restore the confidence of the people but would elect our state ticket and the would be of immense advantage to the congressional, legislative and county ticket.

Compton-Penney.

Miss Flora Compton of this city and Walter M. Penney of Waupaca will be married tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Kate Townsend on the east side. The bride will be accompanied by Miss Beulah Miller of this city and Dr. B. B. Smiley of Stevens Point will be best man. Rev. Fred Staff of the Congregational church will officiate.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner will be served and the newly married couple will leave in the afternoon for Fond du Lac and other points on a wedding trip, after which they will go to Plainfield where they will go to housekeeping, the groom being engaged in the potato business at that point.

Miss Compton is one of our bright young ladies and a most estimable girl, and the groom is to be congratulated on the selection he has made of a partner to accompany him through life. The couple have the heartiest congratulations of the Tribune and their many friends will unite in wishing them a happy wedded life.

Shooting Begins Soon.

The hunting season begins on a week from next Saturday, September 1st, and it is entirely probable that a number of our citizens will start out about then to see what they can do in the line of rounding up a mess of prairie chickens. The indications are that the hunting in this section will not be as good this year as it has been in years gone by, but still there are some birds reported from various sections of the country.

It is probable that there will be fewer outside hunters here than ever before, for the reason that the crop of chickens was so light last year that few of them got enough to pay for the trip here.

Secured Some Bass Fry.

On Tuesday morning George N. Wood received seven cans of bass fingerlings from the United States fish commission, which were planted in the river above the Consolidated dam. The fish were delivered by the United States fish car No. 2, which came in on the freight that morning.

Mr. Wood has been trying to get some bass fingerlings for a number of years, and about two years ago he took up the matter with Congressman Brown and after considerable work this consignment was received. The small bass are soiled out of the Mississippi river, and taken from there and delivered at different points where there is a demand for them. It has been the opinion of many that the only way to have any bass fishing in the Wisconsin river since the dam were built was to keep up the supply by planting either fry or fingerlings. Mr. Wood reported that out of the seven cans only five of the fish had died, and when they were placed into the water they seemed to be as lively as could be desired. The fish varied in size from two to four inches in length. It is figured that in two years the fish will weigh about three quarters of a pound and will do much to better the fishing in this locality.

Will Represent City.

Ben Hansen left on Tuesday for Ashtab where he will represent the city of Grand Rapids at the meeting of Wisconsin Municipalities which is being held in that city this week. These meetings are held each year for the purpose of discussing problems that come up and have to be solved by the officers of the different cities throughout the state. One of the subjects that usually occupies considerable time at the meetings is the question of municipal ownership of public utilities, such as electric light and gas plants, water service, and things of a kindred nature. As our electric light and water plants and the telephone exchange are now practically owned and operated by the city, these matters are not of as much importance to us as they are to other cities where some private corporation has a monopoly of such things and charge monopolistic prices.

Broke a Leg.

August Simbu broke his leg in a peculiar manner on Friday. He was walking along the street when he stepped on a small stone and strained his leg in such a manner that the knee cap was broken. The man had been hurt on the knee while at work in the Nekoma paper mill some time ago, and the hurt later became infected and developed into quite a sore. He went into the hospital at Green Bay and received treatment and had almost recovered when the accident happened to him on Friday. He went back to Green Bay to enter the hospital again.

Beaten by Merrill.

The Grand Rapids baseball team went to Merrill on Sunday and played a game with the Merrill team which resulted in a victory for the Merrill boys by a score of 10 to 3. The Grand Rapids boys played a good game at the start in and up to the sixth inning held down the Merrill team to a whitewash, then they went to pieces and let their opponents run in ten scores on errors. A number from this city went up to witness the game.

Board of Review Finished.

The board of review, which has been in session during the past month, finished its labors last week. It is probable that everybody is not satisfied with the assessment this year, but in spite of this fact valuations were not reduced very much. The valuation in this city this year is something over a million dollars more than it was last year, but it is figured that the rate will be somewhat lower than heretofore.

Death of Oliver Smith.

Word was received here last week of the death of Oliver Smith, who for a time made his home in this city, being employed in the Chevrolet furniture factory. His death occurred on Wednesday at the Sisters hospital at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., where he had been since the 1st of August sick with typhoid pneumonia. His home was at Grand Rapids, Mich. Mr. Smith was 26 years of age, a popular member of the Elks Lodge, and was well liked by all who knew him.

Elks Win a Game.

The Elks baseball team went to Waupaca on Thursday of last week and played a game with the K. P. team of that city, the score being 16 to 6 in favor of the team from Grand Rapids. The boys report that they were treated in a most handsome manner by their much.

On Thursday, Aug. 20th, the Waupaca team will come here to play the Elks a return game.

Broke an Arm.

The ten year old son of Joe Golgan broke his right arm on Sunday evening at the elbow. He was playing with some companions during which he was pushed backward and fell and struck his elbow on some obstruction that fractured the bone. Dr. Ridgman was called and reduced the fracture and he has since been getting along nicely.

DEATH IN THE RIVER

Mrs. Ferena McGrath Commits Suicide in the Wisconsin on Saturday.

Mrs. Ferena McGrath, mother of Thomas McGrath who resides about a mile north of Hiram on the Wisconsin river, committed suicide on Saturday afternoon by jumping into the river and drowning. Nobody saw the deed committed but the evidence all pointed to a case of suicide, and the jury that was impaneled to view the case, decided that such was the fact.

Mrs. McGrath made her home with her son Tom and the last seen of her was about two o'clock Saturday afternoon. When she did not appear at supper time a search was made for her and in a short time her slippers and hat were found lying on the river bank a short distance up the river from where the family lived. The search was continued as long as possible that evening, but nothing more could be found to indicate what had become of the old lady. The next morning boats were secured and the river dragged, but this did not result in any success until about ten o'clock when the body was found floating at the edge of an island only a short distance down river.

The authorities in this city were notified and Justice Keyes went to the scene of the tragedy, where he impounded a jury consisting of M. G. Mosher, John Passey, George Bates, Cliff DeMar, Stephen Snyder and Alfred Akay. The jury viewed the body and after inquiring into the facts decided that the woman had come to her death by drowning, and that she had done the deed herself. Thomas McGrath stated that his mother has been a great sufferer from rheumatism for a number of years, and in order to ease the pain she had been in the habit of taking laudanum in considerable quantities. That on Saturday she had no laudanum and that she was suffering considerable pain. He came to the city to procure some of the drug, and it was his supposition that she had committed suicide on account of the excessive pain she was suffering. Mrs. McGrath was 77 years of age and the funeral was held on Monday from the Catholic church.

Cost of Living and Tariff.

The whole tariff issue turns on whether the people of the United States will decide to continue to add to the enormous profits of the protected trusts. There can be no dispute that the cost of living has increased as per cent since the present tariff law was enacted. Every housekeeper knows this is true from personal experience. It does not require Dill's index figures to verify this large increase in prices. It is also now acknowledged by the republican leaders that the trusts sell their products cheaper abroad than to our people. It is also certain that wages, small incomes of the workmen, small tradesmen, clerks and wage earners generally have not increased in like proportion to the increased cost of living, for whereas it now takes $1.48 to buy what cost $1.00 in 1897 incomes have only increased on the average 14 per cent, so that if a wage earner was getting in 1897 $15 a week, he now gets $17.10. If he has increased the average income. The increased cost of what he buys is nearly half as much again, not including rent. How much rent has increased can be settled by each individual for himself. In most of the large cities rents have fully kept pace with the increased cost of living and the cost of building materials has followed the general trend of prices. In some small cities and in villages rents have not increased in the same proportion, but wages there have also not increased as much.

The voters of the United States in each congressional district will have to decide, when they vote next fall, which party best represents their interests. The republicans stand up and will not revise the tariff in any particular. They point to trust high prices as an evidence of the prosperity the tariff has produced and they keep discreetly silent about the much less increase of salaries and wages. The democrats are pledged to revise the tariff by greatly reducing the excessive rates that now shelter the trusts. That would result in a reduction of high trust prices, because if the trusts did not reduce prices, importations of foreign goods would come in and compete with the products of the trusts. The reduction in the cost of living would virtually be an increase of salaries and wages, because the money earned would buy more, or it would take less money to provide for the necessities of a family or person.

The farmers who investigate the tariff issue, unless he is one of the protected class, is certain to decide that the democratic policy is best for his pocketbook.

The Farmers and the Tariff.
The farmers can hardly approve the republican standstill program, when they find cotton declining and the cost of it they buy rapidly advancing. Where does the honest protection to agriculture come in under the present protective tariff and how are farmers protected, although the tariff law provides that 35 cents a bushel on oats can be collected on imports? The price of wheat is now lower than it has been for ten years or since the present tariff law was enacted in August 1897.

Those farmers, who are republicans, should demand of their "standstill" leaders a fair deal, and if the Agricultural machinery trust, the barbed wire combine, the lumber association and the clothing trusts, are to still be protected by the tariff in charging exorbitant prices for their products, that some method of raising the price of cereals and keeping them stable should offset trust high prices.

The fact is, however, that no tariff can protect the farmer on his products of which the surplus must be sold abroad, as the price paid by the foreigners for that surplus is less than the price here. The only relief the farmer can receive is to be able to buy in the cheapest market and this he can never do as long as the trusts, shak control all he buys, are protected by the tariff from competition. It is plain therefore that the farmer who votes for a republican congress-man and for republican candidates for the legislature, who in turn will elect republican senators, is voting to continue the protection to the trusts and for high prices, with no protection to help the price of his own products.

To Democratic Voters.

If there ever was a time in the history of the democratic party for the manifestation of loyalty and patriotism on the part of its members, it is right now.

If we are to win a victory and elect a President two years hence, we must first elect a House of Representatives this fall. A Democratic House can and will investigate every Department of the Government. With all of them honeycombed by "graft," the edge of which, only, have been touched by recent exposure and prosecution, there will be a revolution of rottenness that will account the country and create a demand for a Democratic administration to clean the Government workshop.

To win the House we need money to defray legitimate expenses and get out our vote. We have no protection from which to draw to fill our coffers, as they do those of the republican party. We must, therefore, appeal to loyal democrats for contributions.

Will you send us $1.00 at once, and in return for this we will send you copies of our campaign literature issued by the Committee. You will have the thanks of the entire Democratic party for your favorable response to our request.

The Best Dirt Road in Wisconsin.

It is almost too good to be true, but it is a fact nevertheless that the best dirt road in the state is one of the cheapest. In Waupaca county about six and a half miles south of the county seat an enterprising road owner, Mr. Olaus W. Gibson by name, got tired of a three-quarter mile stretch of bad clay road in his district and fixed it up at a cost of twenty-four dollars so that it is the best dirt road in the state.

Before it was made over this road was like most other dirt roads lower than the ground alongside of it so that the water couldn't get out of it in any way but by evaporating. The ground was low so the evaporating was a slow process, and teams had plenty of chance to work the road into an impassable bed of puddled clay. — of about the right consistency to run through a brick machine to make brick, but pretty poor stuff to travel on. When the water finally dried up the lumps baked to a brick-like hardness which made the road extremely uneven and hard to travel over until they were broken down by the travel to form a two inch layer of the dirt.

But all this has changed. Now the road is never muddy in rainy weather and there is almost no dust in dry weather, and best of all the road is in condition so that it can be kept in this dustless and mudless state for an annual cost of only three to five dollars per mile.

All this sounds like a different thing to us, but it was simply as could be. Mr. Gibson cut out the brush along his road, plowed the sides, turned the dirt in toward the center with a road grader and made a good rounded grade of such a shape that the water naturally found its way to the ditches. So far he did just like any other road owner does with his road machine. But Mr. Gibson went farther. He took forks and threw the soil outside the ditches and harrowed the soft newly made grade to settle it and make it even. Then after the first rain he went over it with a King split-log road drag to fill up the ruts which the travel had made in the still loose dirt of the grade. He repeated the dragging after each subsequent rain and after a few such treatments had a road on which a heavily loaded wagon made hardly any impression even right after a rain when most clay roads would be all mud.

This road drag was made for the town by the local blacksmith for about five dollars. It consisted of an eight-inch log split into two pieces. These pieces were set up with the flat faces forward and connected with wooden tenons to hold them about thirty inches apart. For about half a mile along the front log was shod along the lower side of the face with steel and provided with a chain to draw the apparatus by. A tone was hooked on the chain in such a manner that as the drag was pulled along it lay at an angle with the road and worked a little of the dirt toward the center to fill the ruts.

By going over the roads after every rain a little soft puddled clay was dragged toward the center filling the ruts and keeping up the good rounded shape of the grade so that water ran off readily. This puddled clay was packed into the ruts by the travel and dried hard as brick so that it became steadily harder for wheels to cut any ruts in it, thus it came about also that the road was not cut up into big clods which could dry and be pounded into dust and so the road is nearly dustless in dry weather.

This simple operation can be performed after every rain on any clay road that is slightly rounded up, and at a cost of only three to five dollars a mile per year—it is done for this cost on miles after miles of Iowa roads. The principle of the operation is that it is road maintenance not reconstruction after the road has been allowed to go all to pieces. It is the same principle that the railroads use in keeping their road beds in shape—the same overworked rule we have all been told times without number, and have always believed in most heartily as a good motto for the other fellow—that a stitch in time saves nine.

Make Hay While the Sun's Shines.
There is a lesson in the work of the thrifty farmer. He knows that the bright sunshine may last but a day and he prepares for the showers which are so liable to follow. So it should be with every household. Dysentery, diarrhoea and cholera morbus may attack some member of the household at any time. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which is the best known medicine for these diseases should always be kept at hand, as immediate treatment is necessary, and delay may prove fatal. Debt and Poverty.

That many people are living beyond their means is attested by the evidence gathered by the state bureau of labor statistics of Massachusetts, and published in the July Labor Bulletin. It witness to non-collectible indebtedness as found from an investigation among dealers in groceries, clothing, furniture and real estate in the city of Boston. We can only give the summary figures, which represent matters as they stood something over a year ago and are exclusive of debts that had become outlawed.

Number dealers reporting.....1,483

Number debtors reported.....52,410

Amount of debts.....$1,067,481

Debt contracted by:

Wage earning class.....504,433

Trading class.....275,116

Professional class.....49,900

Money class.....33,415

The trading class comprehends clerks, salesmen, bookkeepers, etc., and the other groupings describe themselves. There may be much duplication here—that is, one person may be reported as indebted to the grocer and the furniture dealer, and as appear as two persons in the number of debtors reported; but the conclusion nevertheless, seems to be warranted that no less than 10 per cent of the people of Boston are owing for such necessities of living as clothing and food, which debts are held by the dealers as hopelessly non-collectible, for this was the only kind of indebtedness considered in this inquiry.

There is no reason to believe that the people of Boston are any more extravagant than other cities and no doubt similar conditions exist everywhere.

The question is, what makes those people contract debts they cannot pay? Our boasted prosperity must be a myth, or at least to per cent of the people, for to be in debt that one cannot pay is no prosperity, but disaster. As much more than half of this indebtedness stands against the wage-earning class, it implies that conditions of labor compensation are insufficient to meet the bare necessities of living.

Dunn's index figures show conclusively that the cost of living has advanced 48 per cent since 1897, when the present trust fostering tariff law was enacted, it is therefore fair to assume that wages have not kept pace with the cost of living and that this discrepancy accounts for many not being able to pay their bills. In fact, wages have only increased 14 per cent during the same period.

The task of the wage earner, with a family to support, under this system that plunders the many for the benefit of the few, is a hard one. There is on all hands an over-accumulation and he finds himself unable to stem the current that the demands of his family and children heap up. They seek others living and dressing in comfort and naturally long for similar good cheer and enjoyment. They want to appear as well dressed as their companions at school and elsewhere, and the wage earner strives to satisfy them.

But that constant daily drag of 48 per cent above the normal for everything he buys, drags him down to either pinching economy or debt. And meanwhile the trusts and combines are greatly prospering under this 48 per cent advance in prices, of which they monopolize the lion's share. But the great mass of the people are only making both ends meet and yet a republican congress has refused to even discuss this plundering tariff law that is the main cause of this inequality of great prosperity of a few and a fair living for others and grinding poverty for thousands.

Democratic Committee Meeting.

A meeting of the precinct, ward, village and township committee of the Democratic party of the County of Wood, Wisconsin, will be held in the various precincts, wards, villages and townships of the County of Wood, Wisconsin, on the sixth day of September, A. D. 1906, for the purpose of electing a representative of the said precinct, ward, village and township, on the County Committee of the Democratic party of the County of Wood, Wisconsin. Edward Lynch, Chairman of the County Committee of Wood County.

Some Fine Sheep.

Fancy sheep purchased in England and Scotland by George McKerrrow of Pownawke who is known by every farmer who ever attended an institute in Wisconsin, will be a fair beginning. It is a good state, fair beginning. Mr. McKerrrow has just returned from Great Britain and while there bought 237 head of the finest Shropshires, Dorsets, Southdowns, Hampshire, Oxford and Cheviots, which he could find in the British Isles. The sheep lost quarantine at South Quaker last week for Wisconsin and other parts of the country where some of them have been sold.

Mr. McKerrrow was eight weeks in Great Britain, and the sheep he purchased from the largest importation to this country in many years. High prices were paid for all of the wool and mutton giving animals, but the highest was $250 for a single Shropshire. This particular sheep is famous throughout Great Britain as one of the original ten-prize winners in the Shropshire-West Midland show, in which only the best are allowed to compete.

The 237 sheep are distributed among the different breeds as follows: Shropshires, 165; Hampshire, 31; Oxford, 28; Southdowns, 7; Cheviots, 7; Dorset, 6. Only the best of these sheep will be shown at the state fair. Not one of the lot imported was rejected at quarantine. Nearly every one has been a winner in British stock shows and they were purchased from the leading dealers.

While Mr. McKerrrow bought most of the sheep for the farm, George McKerrrow & Son, who have more sheep on one farm than any other firm or breeder in America, he purchased a number for other people. On the McKerrrow ranch at Pownawke there are over 400 head of blooded sheep. The importation will be distributed as follows: John Kivlin, Dane county, 50 head; A. J. Knollin, Soda Springs, Idaho, 20 head; James Wilkins, Brush, Col., 3 head; Colorado Agricultural college, 1 head; Oscar Shirley, London, Me., 3 head; C. M. Williamson, Zenia, O., 3 head; R. M. Lawson, Borkes Garden, Va., 3 head.

The sheep are to be used for breeding, and all are from the most popular mutton producing breeds. Their meat is of choice quality and their wool is of excellent grade.

With Mr. McKerrrow on his trip abroad was D. J. McJany of McJany Bros., horse breeders, Janesville, Wis., who purchased thirty-six head of Brysdale horses, some of which probably will be shown at the state fair.

Wisconsin State Civil Service.

The State Civil Service Commission issues notice of a general competitive examination to be held on September 2nd, 1906 for the following positions: Stationers and typewriters; engineers of stationary steam boilers; firemen of steam boilers and guards; reformatory keepers and guards; teacher guards at the Green Bay Reformatory; supervisors of dairy tests; all inspectors at Prairie du Chien; machinists at the University; attendants at the hospitals for the insane and the feeble minded; assistant auditor of the University; actuary in the Insurance Department.

The secretary of the Commission states that eligible lists prepared early in the year for the positions of engineers, fireman, prison guards and attendants have become nearly exhausted. An insufficient number applied for the position of machinist; there are at present only two names on the eligible list.

There have been frequent calls for good stenographers and typewriters, and the present list will be exhausted within the next few months. The last legislature enacted a law providing that legislative stenographers, and clerks with typewriting ability shall be chosen by the Civil Service Commission. ONLY MEN are eligible for these positions. Legislative stenographers will receive $5.00 a day.

Clerks having typewriter ability, not stenographers, will receive $4.00 a day during the session of the legislature. Some twenty-five positions in the legislature must be filled as a result of this forthcoming examination. The secretary of the Commission states that the demand for good stenographers seems to exceed the supply.

The Commission has found difficulty in procuring a sufficient number of satisfactory applicants for positions as stenographers, court messengers and cooks in the various state institutions. Persons interested in any of the above named positions should immediately address the secretary of the State Civil Service Commission at Madison, Wisconsin, stating position desired and calling for blanks and printed information.

Speculation as to the practical benefits to be conferred by the enactment of the free alcohol law by the last session of congress becomes more active as the time for the law to go into effect approaches. The internal revenue office is being deluged with inquiries for information relating to the production and uses of denatured vegetable alcohol and the farmers of Ohio and Pennsylvania seem to be conspicuous in the search for poluters. Department officials estimate that the new law should increase the receipts of the big corn growers by from 50 to 100 per cent. Moreover the process of distillation does not destroy the value of the corn as food for cattle and hogs.

An exchange says that it is time to begin to educate horses to the automobile. This machine has come to stay, and to prevent accidents it is necessary for drivers of horses as well as of machines to take precautions. The automobile has all the rights of the road that the horseman has, except that he is compelled to stop on signal. If the signal is ignored the automobile may be arrested, and the authorities are compelled to do this on warrant. It is especially incumbent upon drivers of machines to see that they do not violate the rules of common propriety when on the public highway. The entire class is held responsible for the doings of speed cranks, and they should see to it that the liability to accident is reduced to a minimum, even if they have to get off the road when they see a frightened team.

The Convention.

The 20th annual convention of the Wisconsin State Cranberry Growers Association, held on the beautiful grounds of the Gaynor, Cranberry marshes on Tuesday, August 14th, was unmarked at its close, as having been one of the most beneficial gatherings in the history of the organization.

The day was a typical summer one, warm but clear and as is characteristic of the meetings at this season of the year, the outing proved attractive to over 200 interested.

The morning was spent in looking over the state experimental station and visiting the machine shops and other buildings of the Gaynor company, and at noon a sumptuous repast was served by the ladies with that modest excellence which has become proverbial.

The meeting was called to order by President S. N. Whitkosey, who welcomed those present and outlined the program of the day, explaining that the principal item of the convention would be given to the strangers present, and called upon Mr. H. O. Krushka of Cedar, Burnett Co., Wis., to address the assembly.

Mr. Krushka said he was not at present engaged in cranberry culture but that a large portion of his past life had been so employed, and that the fascination of the business was still affecting him, and notwithstanding the varied experiences incident to the avocation he indicated that progress would be made by those who followed the lines best adapted to the changing conditions of irrigation and drainage.

He indulged the belief that pumping facilities could be used economically and effectively, especially where a high degree of culture was aimed at. Mr. Krushka had been making a tour of the different growing districts and as a rule, found the prospect for a fair crop. In some sections a number of growers would have an increase over the very light crop of last season. Mr. R. A. Eyerson, a grower and dealer in high grade fruit and vines and manufacturer of the Champion Cape Cod Picker of South Hanson Mass., spoke on the peculiar conditions as they are found in Massachusetts. The bogs are made from swamps by removing the heavy wood and stumps, and brought to a water level, then sanded from 3 to 6 inches and the vines stuck in about 18 inches square. For two or three years they are resanded, and when vines get thick are pruned and thus made practicable for picking.

With regard to expense for labor he had been enabled to put barrel on car for $1, when box was clean and in good bearing, but this of course involved a good deal of expense and labor and constant care. Mr. J. W. Budd of Pontiac, N. Y., one of the large and leading producers, stated conditions were different from those in Massachusetts. That the production was from one-third to 1/2 less in consequence of poor crops, but that changes were being effected.

As to the crop, although not a full crop was looked for, there would probably be an increase. The bulk of the berries were shipped on the west, the attempt to build up an export trade not having been successful although there was a small growing demand each year, and a field would seem to exist if handled properly.

In view of the importance of the marketing feature, Mr. A. U. Chumney of Des Moines, Iowa, was called upon for his views, and exhibited a set of labels, which were to be established and maintained. This would give each brand a known reputation and by putting the number of the package on each barrel the responsibility of quality etc., could be fixed.

He did not anticipate any difficulty in disposing of stock that was graded, inspected, and branded.

A much fairer system of rate charges was also promised in the future, and the inequalities at present existing were to be modified.

The address of Mr. Chumney was received with marked attention, and will undoubtedly be a matter of due consideration by those interested in the distribution of the season's yield.

Mr. D. G. Maldo superintendent of the Cranberry experiment station explained how in getting late at work on the station some proposed work would have to be postponed, and in fact, most that was being done was under experimental lines which would require considerable time and further study before definite results could be given out, but all the data was being carefully preserved and would be embodied in forthcoming official reports.

Mr. E. L. Jones, instructor of Soils in the State University generally referred to the pleasant time he was having at the meeting and stated that he had become much interested in his work proposed to give to each of the marshes a blue print showing approximately the location of the dunes and levees.

He was much impressed with the necessity of co-operative handling of the water supply, and with a scientific and systematic survey of the territory involved much better work along lines of flooding and drainage could be effected.

Mr. C. D. Hardenberg entomologist of the state University, said the importance of the matter of the depredations of the insects was being better understood, and that identity and habits of the pests were being made the subject of close investigation.

Many of the remedies which had been tried, were more or less effective, but he was not prepared as yet to give definitely such recommendation as he hoped to later.

A very vital point was the matter of flooding, both as to timeliness and duration but no specific course of treatment could be uniformly followed, that gave entire satisfactory results.

He recommended keeping the dunes clean from vines as it was in them that the insects would find place for the eggs.

The use of torches showed small proportion of injuries insects. Careful drawings and data will be published in the state bulletins and furnished free to the growers. It will be seen the attention now directed toward the study and solution of problems affecting the cranberry industry is of a broad character, and is backed by earnest purpose, and is an assurance of good work being accomplished along the lines laid out.

Prof. A. R. Whitson expected to be present but non presented as advised in the following letter of regret:

University of Wisconsin, Agricultural Experiment Station Madison, Wis., August 10, 1906. Mr. W. H. Fitch, Cranberry, Wis. My Dear Mr. Fitch:

Your kind invitation to be present at the meeting of the Cranberry Growers' Association on Tuesday next was duly received and I had hoped until now that I might be able to accept it. I find, however, that it will be absolutely impossible for me to be present at this meeting and wish to thank you very heartily for the invitation.

We are making an effort to have the station in as good a condition as possible, and I trust that Messrs. Jones, Hardenberg and Maldo will have something of interest to say to the growers on their respective lines of work. It will look as the "intelligent" vigilance were the price of safety in cranberry raising as in every other walk of life. I sincerely hope that we shall be of some aid to the cranberry growers in coping with the many unctions of Wisconsin's best fruit.

Trusting that you will have a very enjoyable and profitable day and wishing the association the very best success I remain Very truly yours, A. B. Whitson.

On account of the unknown extent of the damage inflicted on the crop by frost, worms, hail, blight etc., it was found that any estimate of probable yield must be conjectural to such an extent that later advices were necessary.

It was thought at present a fair crop might be expected, and one could be moved successfully as the broadened territory improved facilities in handling and increased consumption were regarded adequate.

BIRON.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Klapper are rejoicing over the arrival of a pair of twin girls.

The aged mother of Tom McGrath committed suicide by drowning herself Saturday evening. The body was not found until Sunday morning when it was seen on the water attached to a stump not far from where she jumped in. As a signal of her death she left her hat, shoes and stockings on the bank of the river. When disappearance of the body was first noticed it was suggested instantly that she had drowned herself, as she threatened to do so several times previously. Mrs. McGrath has been ailing of late and, as we conclude, became discouraged with life and as a result ended it. The remains were laid at rest in the Catholic cemetery Tuesday, Aug. 21.

Arrested for Horse Stealing George Wolske, horse trader, was arrested on Tuesday and brought before Justice Brown on a charge of horse stealing. The case is now being tried.

The story of the case is that he was running a trap from the exposed back of the town of Sawmen was going to the public place on Saturday with a load of pork. When near the market square on the east side he was arrested by Wolske, who wanted to trade horses with him. The boy claims that he had the exchange with Wolske with the understanding that if the horse did not suit his father he was to trade back. When he got home the horse did not suit the father and on Tuesday the boy came to town again with his father and attempted to get his horse back but was unable to do so as Wolske claimed that he had sold the horse. After discovering that the man would not trade back a warfare was sworn out against Wolske charging him with horse stealing.

JOHN A. AYLWARD, OF MADISON.

John A. Aylward of Madison, Wisconsin, announced his candidacy for the nomination for governor on the Democratic ticket in response to a Democratic call, which county has the highest Democratic vote in the state outside of Milwaukee county and in response to the urgent written request that he become a candidate from among leading Democrats throughout the state.

Mr. Aylward's candidacy is due to no agreement or understanding with anyone within or without the party.
Those who brought him out know that Mr. Aylward's candidacy is due wholly to the demands made upon him for the party's welfare alone by loyal Democrats who helped frame and who heartily support the Milwaukee platform.

He was induced to become a candidate because it was thought his nomination would work to the benefit of the party. Our platform is a frank, strong avowal of true Democratic principles. It is a progressive

Scouted Some Bass Fish.

On Tuesday morning, George N.
Wood received seven cases of bass fingerlings from the United States fish commission which were planted in the river above the Consolidated dam. The fish were delivered by the United States fish car No. 2 which came in on the freight that morning.

Mr. Wood has been trying to get some bass fingerlings for a number of years and about two years ago he tried at the matter with Congressmen Town and after considerable work this afternoon was received. The small bass are scouted out of the Mississippi river, and taken from there and delivered at different points
where there is a demand for them.
It has been the opinion of many that the only way to have any bass fishing in the Wisconsin river since the dam was built was to rely on the supply
by planting either fry or fingerlings.
Mr. Wood reported that out of the seven cases only five of the fish had been planted and when they were placed in the water they seemed to be as lively as could be desired. The fish varied in size from two to four inches in length. It is figured that in two years the fish will weigh about three quarters of a pound and will be much to better the fishing in this locality.

Will Represent City.

Don Hansen left on Tuesday for Ashland where he will represent the city of Grand Rapids at the meeting of Wisconsin Municipalities which is being held in that city this week.
These meetings are held each year for the purpose of discussing problems that come up and have to be solved by the officers of the different cities throughout the state. One of the subjects that usually occupies considerable time at the meetings is the question of municipal ownership of public utilities, such as electric light and gas plants, water service and things of a kindred nature. As our electric light and water plants and the telephone exchange are now practically owned and operated by the city, these matters are not of so much importance to us as they are to other cities where some private corporation has a monopoly of such things and charge unreasonable prices.

Broke a Leg.

August Spahn broke his leg in a peculiar manner on Friday. He was walking along the street when he stepped on a small stone and strained his leg in such a manner that the bone was broken. The man had been hurt on the knee while at work in the Nebraska paper mill some time ago, and the hurt later became inflamed and developed into quite a sore. He went into the hospital at Green Bay and received treatment and had about recovered when the accident happened to him on Friday.
He went back to Green Bay to enter the hospital again.

Compton-Penny.

Miss Flora Compton of this city and Walter M. Penny of Waupaca will be married tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Kate Townsend on the east side. The bride will be accompanied by Miss Beulah Miller of this city and Dr. R. B. Smiley of Stevens Point will be best man. Rev. Fred Staff of the Congregational church will officiate.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner will be served and the newly married couple will leave in the afternoon for Fond du Lac and other points on a wedding trip, after which they will go to Plainfield where they will go to housekeeping the groom being engaged in the potato business at that point.

Miss Compton is one of our bright young ladies and a most estimable girl, and the groom is to be congratulated on the selection he has made of a partner to accompany him through life. The couple have the best of friends and their many friends will wish them a happy wedded life.

Shooting Begins Soon.

The hunting season begins on a week from next Saturday, September 1st, and it is entirely probable that a number of our citizens will start out about then to see what they can do in the line of rounding up a mess of prairie chickens. The indications are that the hunting in this section will not be as good this year as it has been in years gone by but still there are some birds reported from various sections of the country.

It is probable that there will be fewer outside hunters here than ever before, for the reason that the crop of chickens was so light last year that few of them got enough to pay for the trip here.

Excursion to Marshfield.

On Sunday August the 26th The Wisconsin Central will run a regular excursion to Marshfield and return leaving Grand Rapids at 9 a. m.

date will be a Saengerfest Picnic and Concert, Grand Saengerfest Ball, base ball game Marshfield vs Stevens Point, and music all day by the

and points on the Ashland Division. The fare from Grand Rapids and return will be 75 cents.

DEATH IN THE RIVER

Mrs. Ferena McGrath Commits
Suicide in the Wisconsin
on Saturday.

Mrs. Ferena McGrath, mother of Thomas McGrath who resides about a mile north of Brown on the Wisconsin river, committed suicide on Saturday afternoon by jumping into the river and drowning. Nobody saw the deed committed but the evidence all pointed to a case of suicide and the jury that was impaneled to view the case decided that such was the fact.

Mrs. McGrath made her home with her son Lou and the last son of her was about two or three days after noon. When she did not appear at supper time a search was made for her and in a short time her slippers and hat were found lying on the river bank a short distance up the river from where the family lived. The search was continued as long as possible that evening but nothing more could be found to indicate what had become of the old lady. The next morning, boats were scoured and the river dragged, but this did not result in any success until about ten o'clock when the body was found floating at the edge of an island only a short distance down river.

The authorities in this city were notified and Justice Jevons went to

G. Moden, John Paslosky, George

facts decided that the woman had thrombosis for a number of years,

Board of Review Finished.

The board of review which has been in session during the past month, finished its labors last week. It is probable that its overwork is not satisfied with the assessment this year but in spite of this fact valuations were not reduced very much. The valuation in this city this year is something over a million dollars more than it was last year, but it is figured that the rate will be somewhat lower than heretofore.

Waupaca on Thursday of last week and played a game with the K. P.

were treated in a most handsome man-

the trip very much.

Elks a return game.

resting along nicely.

At 23 she was a hopeless wreck. The closing act of the little tragedy was when the mother came from her home in the country, near New York, and hastened to see the place where her girl had died. The mother begged and pleaded with her not to look at the cell; that it would be something she could never forget, but the mother demanded to see it, and as she looked into the cell, she saw the place where her girl had died. PROPER CARE OF THE HAIR

IN SUMMER GIVE IT A REST FROM ARTIFICIAL CURLING

Those at the Seashore Should Never Allow the Salt Water to Remain in the Hair—To Protect the Skin.

Women intending to pass the summer at the seashore should be very careful of both skin and hair. The salt of wind and wave, as well as the glare on the sandy beaches, play havoc with the texture of the skin and the beauty of the hair.

Struggle Made Easier—Interesting Story by a Young Lady in Boston and One in Nashville, Tenn.

On Wednesday morning, clear and cold, not a cloud floated across the sky; nor did there rise above the horizon one of those clouds (portentous forebodings of evil) to which novelists refer as being "no larger than a man's hand." Heaven knew what was the light of day, but there was no light; for the sun was hidden away in a thick fog of smoke and soot.

It could not be seen, and could hardly drag itself out from behind the thick fog of smoke and soot. And in the street, the people were walking about as if they were blind.

AMONG CRANBERRY MEN.

EDITED BY W. H. FITCH.

At the annual convention of the Wisconsin State Cranberry Growers' Association, held on the 10th and 11th inst. at the Hotel Wisconsin, Grand Rapids, Wis., the following resolutions were adopted:

The 20th annual convention of the Wisconsin State Cranberry Growers' Association, held on the 10th and 11th inst. at the Hotel Wisconsin, Grand Rapids, Wis., was a most successful one, and the business sessions were well attended.

The day was a typical summer one, warm but clear and as characteristic of the meetings at this season of the year, the coming proved attractive to over 300 interested.

The morning was spent in looking over the state experimental station and visiting the machine shops and other buildings of the Gaylor company, and at noon a sumptuous repast was served by the ladies with that noted excellence which has become proverbial.

The meeting was called to order by President S. N. Whittlessey, who welcomed those present and outlined the program of the day, explaining that the principal time of the convention would be given to the strangers present, and called upon Mr. H. O. Kroschke of Peot, Burnett Co. Wis., to address the assembly.

Mr. Kroschke said he was not at present engaged in cranberry culture but that a large portion of his past life had been so employed, and that the fascination of the business was still affecting him, and notwithstanding the varied experiences incident to the avocation he anticipated great progress would be made, by those who followed the lines best adapted to the changing conditions of irrigation and drainage.

He indulged the belief that pumping facilities could be used economically and effectively, especially where a high degree of culture was aimed at. Mr. Kroschke had been making a tour of the different growing districts and as a rule, found the prospect for a fair crop. In some sections a number of growers would have an increase over the very light crop of last season. Mr. R. A. Everson, a grower and dealer in high grade fruit and vines and manufacturer of the Champion Cape Cod Picker of South Hanson Mass., spoke on the peculiar conditions as they are found in Massachusetts. The logs are made from swamps by removing the heavy wood and stumps, and brought to a water level, then sanded from 3 to 4 inches and the vines struck in about 18 inches square. For two or three years they are resanded, and when vines get thick are pruned and thus made prunerable for scoping.

With regard to expense for later he had been enabled to put barrel on car for $1, when bog was clean and in good bearing, but this of course involved a good deal of expense and labor and constant care. Mr. J. W. Bredt of Pemberton, N. Y., one of the large and leading producers, stated conditions were different from those in Massachusetts. That the production was from one-third to one-half less in consequence per acre, but that changes were being effected.

As to the crop, although not a full crop was looked for, there would probably be an increase.

The bulk of the berries were shipped out west, the attempt to build up an export trade not having been successful although there was a small growing demand each year, and a light would seem to exist if handled opportunely.

In view of the importance of the marketing feature, Mr. A. H. Chaney of Des Moines, Iowa, was called upon for his views, and exhibited a set of labels, which were to be established and maintained. This would give each brand a known reputation and by putting the number of the package on each barrel the responsibility of quality etc., could be fixed.

He did not anticipate any difficulty in disposing of stock that was graded, inspected, and branded.

A much fairer system of rate charges was also promised in the future, and the inequalities at present existing were to be modified.

The address of Mr. Chaney was received with marked attention, and will undoubtedly be a matter of due consideration by those interested in the distribution of the seasons yield.

Mr. G. G. Madsen superintendent of the Cranberry experiment station explained how in getting late at work on the station some proposal would have to be postponed, and in fact, most that was being done was along experimental lines which would require considerable time and further study before definite results could be given out, but all the data was being carefully preserved and would be embodied in forthcoming official reports.

Mr. E. L. Jones, instructor of Soils in the State University generally referred to the pleasant time he was having at the meeting and stated that he had become much interested in his work on the marshes, and that it was proposed to give to each of the growers a blue print showing approximately the location of the dunes and reservoirs.

He was much impressed with the necessity of co-operative handling of the water supply, and with a scientific and systematic survey of the territory involved much better work along lines of flooding and drainage could be effected.

Mr. O. D. Hardenberg, entomologist of the state University, said the importance of the matter of the depredations of the insects was being better understood, and that identity and habits of the pests were being made the subject of close investigation.

Many of the remedies which had been tried, were more or less effective, but he was not prepared as yet to give definitely such recommendation as he hoped to later.

A very vital point was the matter of flooding, both as to timeliness and duration but no specific course of treatment could be uniformly followed, that gave entire satisfactory results.

He recommended keeping the dunes clean from vines as it was in them that the insects would find place for the eggs.

The use of torches showed small proportion of injurious insects.

Charts and drawings and data will be published in the state bulletins and furnished free to the growers, it will be seen the attention now directed toward the study and solution of problems affecting the cranberry interest is of a broad character, and backed by earnest purpose, and is an assurance of good work being accomplished along the lines laid out.

Prof. A. R. Whitson expected to be present but not presented as advised in the following letter of regret:

University of Wisconsin, Agricultural Experiment Station Madison, Wis., August 10, 1906. Mr. W. H. Fitch, Cranberry, Wood County, Wis.

Your kind invitation to be present at the meeting of the Cranberry Growers' Association on Tuesday next was duly received and I had hoped until now that I might be able to accept it. I find, however, that it will be absolutely impossible for me to be present at this meeting and wish to thank you very heartily for the invitation.

We are making an effort to have the station in as good a condition as possible, and I trust that Messrs. Jones, Hardenberg and Madsen will have something of interest to say to the growers on their respective lines of work. It still looks as the "color" and vigilance were the price of safety in cranberry raising as in every other walk of life. I sincerely hope that we shall be of some aid to the cranberry growers in coping with the many enemies of Wisconsin's best fruit.

Trusting that you will have a very enjoyable and profitable day and wishing the association the very best success I remain Very truly yours,

A. R. Whitson.

On account of the unknown extent of the damage inflicted on the crop by frost, worms, hail, blight etc., it was found that any estimate of probable yield must be conjectured to some extent that later advances were necessary.

It was thought at present a fair crop might be expected, and one could be moved successfully as the broadened territory improved facilities in handling and increased consumption were regarded adequate.
